LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Hon. Joe Burkett

Hon. Joe Burkett, candidate for the nomination for the office of Chief Justice of the Court of Civil Appeals, 4th Supreme Judicial District, was a brief visitor in Hondo Saturday. The Judge is a vigorous campaigner and has been over the entire district, an area much larger than some of the states, and feels very much encouraged over his prospects for winning the nomination. We have known Judge Burkett for a number of years. His old father is one of our most highly appreciated personal friends, and it affords the Managing Editor of this paper pleasure in being able to vote for the younger man for his own meritorious qualifications and entirely aside from personal considerations, strong as they are.

RODEO A SUCCESS.

Considering the excessive heat, the scarcity of money and the numerous other counter attractions all over the country, the rodeo at the fair grounds Saturday and Sunday was well attended and proved a reasonable success. Messrs. E. G. Pope and C. M. Guber are to be congratulated on having presented a successful show. Calf-roping and broncho riding were the chief attractions and engaged the attention both morning and afternoon of each day. Some of the best ropers of the Southwest participated and some fast tying was done.

Baseball games featured both afternoons, that of Saturday afternoon being between the Ninth Infantry team of Fort Sam Houston and the Hondo Bronchos and resulted in a score of 11 to 9 in favor of Hondo. In Sunday afternoon's game the Hondo Bronchos crossed bats with the Sabanas Brewers and Hondo again won by a score of 6 to 5.

A sumptuous repast of barbecued beef, mutton and goat, together with a generous serving of beans, was fed to a hungry crowd each day, and all enjoyed the feast.

On Saturday politicians were rather numerous, but only two candidates braved the occasion to speak. Hon. Noble G. Cofer, candidate for Representative in Congress from the 15th Congressional District, exhibited an enormous petition from the people of the district soliciting him to make the race and spoke along the lines of his published platform. Hon. Joe Caldwell, candidate for reelection as Representative from the 77th Legislative District of Texas, spoke in defense of his claim to the Democratic custom of a second term, defended his record in the legislature and charged certain Uvalde County politicians with trying to accomplish his defeat from selfish motives to control the politics of the district. Politicians were conspicuous by their absence Sunday.

For the convenience and entertainment of the crowd, O. G. Crow equipped the grandstand with his electrical transmitter and loud-speaker and the speakers utilized these facilities for displaying their oratorical gifts. An orchestra from San Antonio played the music for the dance Saturday night and the Tune Wranglers, popular orchestra, played on Sunday night. The dances both nights were largely attended.

LADIES' BRIDGE CLUB.

Mrs. F. H. Schweers was hostess of the Ladies Bridge Club and several guests at her home last Thursday afternoon. High score prizes were won by Miss Lillian Brucks and Mrs. Roy Hunter for members and guests respectively. Cut prizes went to Mrs. Ed. Cameron and Mrs. N. C. Johnson. Refreshments of molded fruit salad, saltines, pickled peaches and iced tea were served to the following: Mesdames L. E. Heath, Ed. Cameron, Fletcher Davis, O. B. Taylor, W. H. Smith, R. J. Noonan, Louis C. Johnson, Roy Hunter, Louis Grube, R. C. Rath, Volney Boon, J. M. Finger, Robert Kollman, A. H. Schweers, Joe Harvey Wilson, J. G. Barry, and Misses Lillian and Josephine Brucks, Hettie Nester and Thelma Wilson.

THE FIFTEENTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

The Man Who Would Represent It

NOBLE G. COFER
Of Brownsville, Texas
Candidate for

CONGRESSMAN FOR THE FIFTEENTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT.

AND HOW:

Here are his Platform Pledges:

Water Conservation, Drainage, and Flood Control

I will endeavor to secure immediate action in effecting a Water Conservation Treaty with Mexico for the conservation and equitable distribution of the waters of the Rio Grande, and immediate construction of an adequate drainage and flood control system.

Farm Mortgage Refinancing.

I shall vigorously support the Frazier-Lemke Bill providing for Federal Aid to the farmers in refinancing farm mortgages, and fully urge that the farmers be not discriminated against but given the same protection and assistance accorded many other less essential industries, and shall demand action rather than faithless promises and illusions.

Prevention of Exploitation of Farmers.

I shall lend my best efforts to the passage of drastic laws prohibiting racketeering in the marketing of agricultural and farm products, and particularly in the marketing of perishable produce.

Social Security Legislation.

I favor social security and will support the McGroarty Bill or any other legislation based upon the fundamental principles upon which such bill is founded.

Suppression of Chain System Monopolies.

I will support any organized efforts to curb the monopolistic chain systems which by unfair competition are ruthlessly destroying the independent grocery, the drug store, the independent business venture. To destroy and eliminate the independent business from American life would end a mighty chapter of community building and strike down a sturdy independent American character.

Human Welfare Vs. Vested Property Rights.

I maintain that the goal of organized society is the assurance of opportunities for the best living possible for all, and that the main function of government is the promotion of National well being. I, therefore, favor and shall support any and all legislation which places Human Welfare above the so-called "sacred vested property rights".

Border National Defense Highway and Modernization of Border Army Posts.

I advocate and will urge the construction of a permanent International Defense Highway paralleling the International Boundary between the United States and the Republic of Mexico, and the complete modernization of Forts Brown, Ringgold and McIntosh.

TO ALL DEMOCRATIC PRECINCT CHAIRMEN OF MEDINA COUNTY.

Every Precinct Chairman is charged with the duty of seeing that a primary election is held in his precinct on Saturday, July 25, 1936. Polls open at 8 A. M. and close at 7 P. M.

TO MY FRIENDS.

I shall consider it a personal favor if you will go to the polls and vote for Milton H. West for Congress, Saturday, July 25. He is assured of renomination by a three to one vote over the district. Let's give him a big vote in Medina County.

MINUS $20,000,000,000.

During the past six years, the Federal treasury has been going into the hole.

In that time, the Federal government has spent approximately $18,000,000,000 more than it has received. And it is reliably forecast that the current fiscal year will place the cumulative deficit above $20,000,000,000.

Those vast deficits have been "financed" through the issuance of government securities—in other words, they have been added to the soaring national debt. They have been charged against the future—and generations to come must help pay them.

These are facts that require no comment. They show, better than argument, how essential to the national welfare is economy in governmental expenditures.—Industrial News Review.

TRUE MASONS.

There are many members of the Masonic Fraternity who are not in truth Masons. Many who display the Square and Compasses on the lapels of their coats are not aware of the real significance or meaning of the emblem. To be sure they may have witnessed the working of the degrees, and have their name upon the membership roll of some lodge, but that is as far as their Masonry goes.

For it is not by witnessing the degree work, nor by paying dues, that one becomes in reality a member of the Craft. First, the applicant should be of good material and earnest in his desire. Just as it is impossible by taking a ball of wood, painting it red and labelling it apple, to give it the flavor and edible qualities of that fruit, so it is impossible to make a Mason of one who is not of Masonic material by making him a member of a lodge and giving him the privilege of wearing the Fraternity's emblem. Therefore, it is of vast importance that those upon whom is the responsibility of casting a ballot for or against the applicant should use care in the exercise of that duty and not adopt an apathetic attitude towards it.

Nor does the responsibility of the members end there. After the candidate, who has been found worthy, has witnessed the degrees and had bestowed upon him the privilege of membership, he needs aid in the search for knowledge in order that he may become a "True Mason," and this aid can be furnished only by those who have traveled the path and can point out the pitfalls, consisting largely of lack of interest and indifference.

If, counselled by older members, the interest of the new initiate is sustained and developed, by study and practice of Masonic principles he will become a "True Mason."

What is meant by a "True Mason?" It might be defined in part as one who realizes his own shortcomings, the imperfections of his own character, and strives to overcome them. One who looks upon his fellow man as a brother, not thinking of the term brother as a mode of address but as a person who is to be trusted and considered before others, as well as aided and cared for in the time of distress. Further, the "True Mason" adopts towards all a tolerant attitude. This does not mean that he should accept wrong and condone it by silence; rather, that he will not condemn others for their faults but, if possible, will aid them in the correction of these faults. He does not look upon the lodge or the Fraternity as a means of diversion and entertainment, but as an agency for the betterment of humanity, its work to be carried on through the individual members.

The membership of the Craft includes a large number of active members—"True Masons"—and, also, a too-large number of drones. The former insure the immortality of the (Continued on last page.)

Crop Damage From Drouth Mounts—Assassin Tries to Kill Edward VIII—Townsend and Coughlin Form Alliance.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© Western Newspaper Union.

THE nation's drouth worries continued unabated after scattered showers in widely separated areas of the Midwest and the Northwest failed to eliminate the heat. Regions bordering the Great Lakes enjoyed cool breezes brought by a high pressure area from Hudson Bay.

But the meager rainfall in the drouth-stricken belt did little toward bringing relief and crop deterioration continued on a vast scale throughout the parched states.

Loss of life throughout the United States from the unprecedented heat wave exceeded 3,850, an all-time high.

Agronomists in Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois and Ohio expressed apprehension over the outlook for the corn crop unless general rains should develop rapidly.

In principal cities the price of milk was advanced one cent a quart as the result of drouth conditions. Prices of meat, however, dropped with the influx to market of drouth cattle. The possibility of an upward trend later on was seen, however.

Completing a tour of the drouth areas, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace declared the nation need have no fears of a food shortage, and assailed those "who have tried for their own purposes to scare the consumers about food scarcity." He added: "There is no excuse for substantial increases in food prices now."

Arriving at Bismarck, North Dakota, to help co-ordinate drouth relief enterprises, Rexford G. Tugwell, resettlement administrator, was informed that approximately 60,000 farm families in the state were among the needy. A conference of state and federal officials in Bismarck developed a three-fold plan for the relief of dwellers in the desolated areas of the Dakotas, western Minnesota, eastern Montana and Wyoming. These included:

Immediate advancement of money to needy families, repayable out of WPA earnings; granting of funds to farmers desiring to keep small livestock herds for the purchase of feed and subsistence to be repaid by work on WPA projects; loans and grants to owners of large scale cattle enterprises to cover the cost of shipping animals to other states for feeding.

THE attempted assassination of King Edward VIII of England in London brought great alarm to the English speaking world. The attempt was made near Hyde Park and the monarch's life was saved by a woman bystander who grappled with the would-be assassin and wrested a pistol from him.

The king was returning to Buckingham palace from Hyde Park, where on horseback he had presented new colors to six battalions of the Grenadier, Coldstream and Scots guards.

There was unrest in other European capitals. In Madrid, Jose Calvo Sotelo, one of Spain's most powerful monarchist leaders, was kidnapped and murdered. Precautions were taken to guard other political figures, lest the assassination open a new period of disorder between the leftists and rightists. The crisis was heightened by the threat of the Socialists to establish a dictatorship.

In Paris, the celebration of France's national holiday, Bastille day, saw the Champs Elysees a scene of rioting with rightists and leftists in combat with each other and the police. The disorders began when leftists were returning from their own parade in the eastern section of the city. Seeing red flags borne in the procession, the rightists greeted their opponents with cries of "Soviets everywhere."

Hopeful signs for European peace were seen in the withdrawal by Italy from Lybia of the first units of 40,000 troops from the Egyptian frontier. The withdrawal of the troops from the North African colony was Italy's answer to Britain's action in recalling its home fleet from the Mediterranean.

IMMEDIATE splitting of the American Federation of Labor into two rival groups was averted by the action of the Federation's executive council in voting to bring to trial on August 3 the union leaders led by John L. Lewis on charges of "dual unionism." It had been reported earlier that the council had voted to suspend the 12 unions grouped as the Committee for Industrial Unionization.

The council's action was looked upon as a peace move in the crisis that threatens open warfare in the labor movement. It was precipitated by the drive to organize 500,000 workers in the steel industry into one big industrial union by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers and his followers.

The charges against the Lewis group include "competition as a rival organization with the A. F. of L."; fomenting an insurrection within the Federation; violation of contracts they have entered into with the Federation when granted their charters.

AN ALLIANCE between Dr. Francis E. Townsend, Father Charles E. Coughlin and the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith in the interests of a third party was announced at the Townsendite convention in Cleveland, attended by 12,000 followers of the California doctor who advocates pensions of $200 per month for every person over sixty.

In an address before the convention, Father Coughlin bitterly denounced the present administration and President Roosevelt and called upon the delegates to follow Dr. Townsend in endorsing the candidacy of William Lemke for the presidency on the Union ticket.

Earlier the New Deal had been the target of both Dr. Townsend and the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, now leader of the late Huey Long's share-the-wealth movement.

Townsendite candidates who must run on the Democratic ticket planned a pro-Roosevelt demonstration. Pro-Roosevelt delegations representing 11 states signed a resolution urging that no "merger or fusion" with a third party be made. A tactical victory was won by the New Deal forces in the election of Willis Mahoney, Townsendite-Democratic candidate for senator from Oregon, as chairman of the resolutions committee.

THE arrest of former Lieut. Commander John S. Farnsworth of the United States navy on a charge that he had sold confidential naval data to a Japanese officer marked what observers believed was the beginning of a roundup of persons suspected of supplying navy secrets to foreign powers.

Declaring that he had obtained nothing of importance from the navy and gave nothing to the Japanese that "could not have been obtained in the public library in Washington," Farnsworth at first pleaded not guilty to the charges.

Farnsworth is charged with taking from the Navy department and later selling it to the Japanese government, a book entitled "The Service of Information and General Security." The book is on naval tactics and according to officials, is rated as "confidential."

PREDICTING 1936 will be the best business year since 1930 and "possibly since 1929," Colonel Leonard P. Ayers, economist of Cleveland, declared that statistics on all important business had shown substantial and "healthy increases" since the first of this year. Strikes, drouth and other difficulties have not affected increases in employment, markets and security, exchanges, the economist said.

"More steel has been produced in the first half of 1936 than in all 1932," he pointed out. "A major factor in the increased steadiness of business has been well sustained employment among the factory workers making durable goods. Workers in the durable goods factories suffer most from lay-offs and shut-downs, but such has not been the case in the first half of this year and of last year."

HENRY FORD, approaching his seventy-third birthday envisioned the eventual decline of farm animals as a source of the world's food and predicted that grains and other crops will largely be substituted for them.

"We can, I believe, get a more plentiful supply of food cheaper and better," he said, "by processing the products of the soil instead of asking cows and chickens to do it for us. In the future farm animals of all kinds will decline in numbers. We won't need them. The farm animal will go, but the farm will become larger."

AFTER dedicating New York's new $64,000,000 Tri-borough bridge, attending the wedding of Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, minister to Denmark, to Captain Boerge Rohde of the Danish court and spending two days at his Hyde Park home, President Roosevelt embarked on a nautical vacation in Maine and Canadian waters.

On the bridge dedication program with the President were Secretary of the Interior Ickes, Gov. Lehman of New York, Senator Wagner and Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York City. The bridge is the largest completed public works administration project in the East. It comprises four spans in its three and one-half miles of elevated ways and connects Manhattan, the Bronx and Queens, Long Island. Its cost is second only to that of the Golden Gate bridge at San Francisco.

On the cruise of the Seawanna, a 50-foot schooner yacht, President Roosevelt will act as skipper and helmsman. Three of his four sons, James, Franklin Jr., and John are members of the crew. The cruise will carry the President along the Maine coast to Campobello Island, New Brunswick, where his mother has a summer home and off Nova Scotia where he expects to do some deep sea fishing. A destroyer, the presidential yacht Potomac and the schooner Liberty carrying newspaper men are trailing the Seawanna.

Before he returns to the White House, the President will pay a visit to Lord Tweedsmuir, governor-general of Canada.

A NEW era in European diplomacy was heralded with the signing of a treaty between Germany and Austria re-establishing peace and normal relations between the two nations.

Since Italy has been acting in the role of big brother to Austria in the past two years it was regarded as a virtual certainty that Premier Mussolini had sanctioned the new pact. Observers pointed out that with Germany, Austria and Italy in accord and with Poland friendly to Hitler's aims, Europe now has a prospective alliance more powerful than the triple alliance of Germany, Italy and Austria-Hungary preceding the World war.

COMPLETE endorsement of the presidential candidacy of Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas was given by former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois following a conference in Topeka. Following the conference former Governor Lowden announced that he and Governor Landon were in "full accord" on the question of farm relief.

The Illinois farm leader revealed that he had discussed soil erosion, reciprocal treaties, conservation of farm population, government aid in marketing surplus crops, centralizing of federal power and reduction of federal expenditures with Gov. Landon. Mr. Lowden declared:

"We are in accord on the important agricultural issues. I shall support him and campaign for his election."

Payment of cash federal bounties to soil-conserving farmers through a plan contemplating state administration was one of the farm principles advocated by Mr. Lowden which received the verbal support of Gov. Landon following the conference.

With the Republican presidential nominee at work on his acceptance speech, conferences with other leaders were scheduled. Important among these was the visit of George N. Peek, former AAA administrator who resigned his post following a break with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and is now a New Deal critic. Also on the program was the visit of Col. Frank Knox, Governor Landon's running mate.

At Governor Landon's office a letter was made public from William Cabell Bruce, former Democratic senator from Maryland, saying that he was "bitterly disappointed" in President Roosevelt and "deeply gratified" at Governor Landon's nomination.

In the meantime members of the Kansas legislature had departed for their homes after submitting two constitutional amendments to the state's electorate. One of these would authorize state aid for the needy and the other would approve state participation in the federal social security plan.

FIFTEEN Japanese army officers, who were leaders in last February's bloody rebellion in which four high-ranking government officials met assassination, were executed by a firing squad in Tokyo.

Two other officers condemned to death were not shot and no explanation was made by the war office. They were Captain Yoshiaki Nakamura and Captain Asaiichi Isobe. Unofficial observers believe their lives were temporarily spared so that they might testify in trials of other men accused of complicity in the uprising of February 26 which pushed Japan close to the brink of civil war.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted By WILLIAM BRUCKART
NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington.—One of the pieces of legislation enacted by the seventy-fourth congress was the ship subsidy bill.

Ship Subsidy

Residents of farming communities and smaller cities and towns in the interior probably paid no attention to it whatsoever. Nor was there any outstanding reason apparent why they should give thought to a rather complex and yet far-reaching piece of legislation. But it is important even though the circumstances under which it will be effective may not so appear to the agricultural sections of the country.

The new law provides an undisguised subsidy as the basis of encouragement for development of a new American merchant marine. It is the first time that such a policy has been carried out by the American nation and it is, therefore, yet a matter to be tried out before anyone can say definitely that the results will be satisfactory. Those who sponsored the legislation have long contended it was both sound and sensible and their argument prevailed in congress.

Advocates of the measure say that it will provide at least a start for the construction of new and faster and more efficient American owned ships. They contend further that the policy upon which the nation has now embarked as regards shipping will cost less in the end than other disguised and concealed subsidies that have been employed.

It may be necessary to recall that the United States long has paid what amounts to a subsidy to ocean going ships in the form of excessive rates for the transportation of ocean mail. There are 43 such mail routes and the ships operating on these routes, consequently, benefited to the extent of the number of pounds of mail they carried because the payments they received were on a pound basis. This contribution from the federal government enabled many of those shipping companies to survive.

But it is only natural that one should ask why a subsidy is advisable or necessary at all. The answer is plain. American owned ships, ships flying the American flag, are required by law to meet numerous conditions that are not required by any other nation of the ships registered with their admiralties.

With these conditions, among many others, it becomes easily understandable what difficulties confront American flag ships in competition with world shipping.

Above and beyond the factors just mentioned, it is a matter of record as well that ship construction in the United States costs more perhaps than any place else in the world. Here again American standards are influential. They bring about higher wages and shorter hours for American labor in American shipyards. Thus, a new ship starting out begins its service with a handicap of greater cost upon which a return must be had if those who invest their money in ships are to receive a profit thereon.

Then, there is a further distinct and important reason. I refer to national defense. It has long been the conviction of military and naval men that American freight and passenger ships should be so designed, developed and constructed, that they might be converted to satisfactory use as auxiliary craft in time of war. In this connection it will be recalled that tremendous sums were expended by our government in building ships for use in the World war. There was such vast waste of money at that time that it seems incredible anyone should ever make the same mistake again. But to avoid that mistake advance preparations are necessary and that is a point strongly stressed by those who favored the ship subsidy legislation.

Now to link the importance of the ship subsidy bill with agriculture: American products must have access to foreign markets and this access must be under fair and reasonable competition conditions. Such reasonable and fair competitive conditions cannot be obtained if American built ships, constructed at greater costs because of the higher standards of wages and living of American labor, and operated on a basis of greater cost for the same reasons do not have some protection from the government whose flag they fly. They cannot, for example, meet the freight rates offered by the Japanese whose labor basis is distressing and whose general construction costs are amazingly low. Nor can they compete with ships constructed with government money and subsidized by special privileges accorded by their governments.

So, it is made to appear, at least from this line of reasoning, that American firms are left to the mercies of foreign shipping companies in their efforts to expand our export trade—that is, they are left to these mercies unless this government takes a definite stand by which American flag ships are accorded some advantages.

I suspect there are many features of the ship subsidy bill which was fathered by Senator Copeland, New York Democrat, that will prove unsatisfactory. Indeed, I am sure some of them will be found to be wholly unworkable. But the point is, after all, that a start has been made toward honesty of policy in dealing with merchant marine problems. I think no one can refute the statement that as between concealed or disguised subsidies and forthright payments that are known as subsidies, the forthright and honest method is decidedly better.

Since the United States normally produces a surplus of agricultural products, it becomes highly important to agriculture that the foreign markets are accessible and that the costs of transportation do not entirely eat up the value of the commodity exported unless the wheat from the plains states and the cotton from the South and the corn from the Mississippi valley can be moved at reasonable cost. It can be moved at reasonable cost only if American shipping is protected. That is not alone my opinion. It is the opinion of many experts in the field.

One might properly inquire why the foreign boats should not be used to handle American commodities if the freight rate is lower. There are two very valid reasons why this should not be obtained. One is that constant rate reduction by foreign shipping companies would sooner or later, probably sooner, destroy the American merchant marine. With this end achieved, the foreign shipping companies would do as they have attempted to do on a number of occasions—jack up the rates to suit themselves. The other reason why American goods should be shipped in American bottoms is that a mercantile marine is as necessary an adjunct to our national economy and our national welfare as are the lines of land transportation. This may seem to me a broad statement but I believe, nevertheless, it is a truthful one because all fields of industry as well as agriculture would suffer if we were left at the mercy of foreign shipping companies. Further, the commodities that we import would pay whatever rates the foreign shipping companies demanded in order to reach our shores and we would pay the bill.

It seems, therefore, that while this legislation probably is far from perfection, probably has entirely too much governmental finger in the shipping pie, presents a start that eventually will be helpful. I have heard no answer to this statement. It is going to cost about so much for transportation on the ocean and if we can maintain an American industry upon that cost plus the aid of a subsidy of the type now initiated, we have laid out a sound unit in our national commercial structure. It goes without saying, therefore, that if it is helpful to one part of the country it is going to be helpful to all others because we are so interrelated.

Political students have been engaged lately in stirring arguments over what possibly may be a new influence in the campaigns of 1936. I refer to the disastrous conditions in some of the plains of the Middle West resulting from lack of rain. I refer, also, to the presence of pests in sections of the plains states.

It has been interesting, not to say humorous, to listen to the arguments being advanced, arguments based purely on political phases that may or may not result from those conditions. There is no agreement among the Democrats and no agreement among the Republicans as to the effect of the natural circumstances developing in the middle west. Some Democrats contend the drouth will react to President Roosevelt's advantage. Some Republicans fear that the Democratic contention is true. Some Democrats are afraid that the loss of crops and the generally bad condition in which this leaves thousands of farmers will place them in a state of mind where they will be determined to vote against somebody and of course the only person against whom they can vote is Mr. Roosevelt inasmuch as he happens to be the man in power at the moment.

This crosses the water by mail, is not new, and not news, when you see it. Only heaven knows what might happen in a week.

Descend Among Bicycles
Many Strikes and Worries
Two Flags That Clash
Two National Hymns

This column, like others to follow, written in Europe, traveling about by automobile, will represent an effort to see things clearly, and describe them, as they are, not as they should be, according to the old formula: "You descend from the ship at Havre into the world on wheels." bicycle wheels, the world on automobile wheels, the world on the other side of the Atlantic.

Arthur Brisbane

Here working men and women thousands of them, ride to and from work, ten to thirty abreast depending on the width of the street.

They have the right of way, properly, in a democracy.

So it used to be in America when automobiles were new, small boys shouted "Get a horse," and New York state law compelled the automobile driver to stop his car and engine, while a farm wagon passed, or if the farmer raised his hand, or even lead the farm team past his machine if the farmer requested it. Here the car stops, while bicycles circulate around it on both sides. Similarly, you stop, later, meeting flocks of sheep, on roads across the salt marshes of the Vendee.

France is a land of bicycles, of many political parties, and, at the moment, a land of strikes. Like all other European countries, it is a land of permanent war scares. America looks upon war as a distant, improbable possibility, and when it comes spends billions on airships that do not fly, ships that never go to sea, and similar evidences of patriotic dollar-a-year efficiency. Europe's nations live in a state of fear, as an American family might live if it knew that at any moment, well-equipped gangsters from next door might enter, "shoot up" the household and set fire to the house.

American travelers leaving the boat by railroad, descending in Paris at the Saint Lazare station, were surprised to find crowds fighting each other, not waiting for Germany, crowds made up entirely of Frenchmen of different political opinions.

Some wore ribbons with the red, white and blue colors of the French flag; others, more numerous, wore the plain color red. One side sang the "Marseillaise," national hymn of France since the revolution. Others wearing small red flags sang the "Internationale," official song of the Communists the world over, from Moscow to Harlem. Crowds grew bigger, the Frenchmen sang the two hymns at each other, more and more violently, with excellent voices, not one out of tune, all knowing the words of their respective hymns. The "Marseillaise" says, "Let us go, children of the fatherland, the day of glory has arrived"; the other says, "Arise ye prisoners of starvation, arise, ye wretched of the earth."

It was a scene never to be described, now that Dooley is dead and Artemus Ward. Nobody bothered the descending foreigners from across the water. A few Frenchmen hit other Frenchmen, not hard, then agents of the Surete, whom we should call policemen, gradually dispersed the crowds, that met and sang at each other again the next day. They live in the suburbs and work in Paris, or vice versa, and, meeting in the railroad station, it enrages them to encounter those that sing the wrong hymn and wear the wrong colors.

Those singers have chests like drums, complexions that reveal countless billions of red corpuscles and voices that could be heard, almost, from Los Angeles to Santa Monica.

One of them broke off at the sad word "starvation" and said to your narrator, who had politely congratulated him on his vigor: "Tenez, tenez mon bras, et j'ai soixante-sept ans"—meaning, "Here, feel my muscle, and I am sixty-seven years old."

The muscle rose in a biceps like a small melon.

The duty of a visiting foreigner is to observe, describe and not comment; but this writer, had he accepted the invitation to speak at the American club in Paris recently, would have suggested that the French, whose only earthly possession is France, should be careful not to tear that property apart, especially with Germany ready to gather up the pieces.

This crosses the water by mail, is not new, and not news, when you see it. Only heaven knows what might happen in a week.

Her voice broke. "Ridder'll be free in a few weeks," she said. "Wait, Mr. Gilbert. You don't know how many innocent people you may drag into this."

Barry hesitated. He now remembered that he had told Pat he loved her. "It didn't get me anywhere," Barry thought. "It never will. I'm not even sure that she heard me, but I'm glad I spoke, all the same."

Aloud, he said, "I'll wait, Pat."

She glanced up at him, gratefully. "Not until the trial, though," he warned her. "I won't take that chance. I won't let this girl, Peggy, go on suffering until then. But now I believe I know who murdered Kelly. Someone who came into the house while your father was there. Someone so full of the thought of it that she bungled the new lock on the front door."

"You think—Hambidge began."

"I think that's why it blew open. And I think, too, that revealing your visit now—would be merely tipping off the hand. The person I suspect has already covered her tracks pretty well."

"Then," Pat said, almost incredulously—"Then you're not going to repeat this story?"

"Not even to Winslow. He hasn't much more faith in my 'sleuthing' than you have. We'll leave him to work out Ridder's defense. For the present let's agree on an armistice. Mutual silence. If the time arrives when I feel I must speak, I'll come to you first. Is that fair?"

"Quite."

From the very beginning, Barry had suspected Mrs. Kelly. "She sued for divorce recently, and withdrew the case," Peter Winslow had told him. "Do you think that might indicate that she killed her husband?" Barry did, and one discovery after another confirmed the idea. "But," as Barry had reminded his city editor, "Mrs. Kelly was in Harlem. She went to a dance."

"Ever hear of faking an alibi?" Harwood had asked, advising a "check up."

That sounded promising until, as the first move in his investigation, Barry dug up The Herald Tribune of "the morning after the body was found." Mrs. Kelly had told him that paper contained a full record of her social activities, and it did. "At the time of the murder, Mrs. Kelly, who sued for divorce recently, and withdrew the case, was awarded prizes at a fancy dress ball of the Cross-town Chowder and Outing club in Harlem Gardens. This was at midnight, and the other judges were..."

"Kelly wasn't killed at midnight," Barry realized. "He wasn't killed until two hours after midnight. If Mrs. Kelly got through with her prizes—" "Well," Barry exulted, climbing into the subway. What next? Say nothing and saw wood—that's what. One more link in this chain, and I'm going to change a lot of people's minds about me and my 'sleuthing'."

Monday morning, Barry dropped in on Peter Winslow. He was still carrying the Ridder check for $2,000, and he wanted Peter to take part of it as a retainer, and bank the rest for Peggy.

Peter did accept it, as a matter of course, though he waved aside the offer of a retainer. "I'm in no hurry," he insisted. "Wait 'til I do something. I know you're good for it."

Obviously, he was doing a great deal. "Got the defense all planned," he declared, showing Barry a thick stack of memoranda. "Loose-leaf memoranda it was, in the most literal sense—scrapped on waste paper and the backs of envelopes. Order may be Nature's first law, but it wasn't this lawyer's."

"No, I'm not neat," Peter smiled, intercepting Barry's glance. "Except personally, and that's Julie's achievement. Julie's Mrs. Winslow, of course, and she buys all my clothes. Lays 'em out for me, too—even the boutonniere. I often ask her if she wants me to look like a gigolo. Don't worry about this stuff, though."—indicating the sheaf of memoranda. "Miss Clark'll have that straight by night."

Miss Clark was his secretary. "Women keep you in order," he went on smiling; "that's about the only thing I have against 'em."

"There's nothing to this case," he continued. "I'll come to trial in a few weeks now, and be over in a few hours. Want to hear what I'm going to ask that Filipino?"

Listening, Barry felt again that his own activities had been merely foolish. A dozen questions disposed of all the evidence the butler had given so far, and made it apparent that what he actually knew of young Ridder's visit was exactly nothing. "You heard a quarrel? A violent quarrel? And you were alarmed? That's why you came upstairs? Rogers left then? And the lights were still burning in the front room? If you were alarmed, why didn't you knock at the door, to make sure your master was all right? Not so very much alarmed, were you? In fact, you weren't alarmed at all until you saw what had happened." This was the beginning of an inquiry that twisted about, doubled on itself, and was likely to leave any jury on earth too uncertain to convict anyone of a capital offense. "Particularly, anyone with a wife and child," Peter said.

"Peggy was in here Friday," he added. "She looks as though she'd been dragged through a knot-hole. I wanted her to come to us for the week-end, but we're in town most of the time. I'm going to talk to the Hambidges about having her out there."

"That would be great," Barry kindled. "They'd be company for each other. It wouldn't do Pat a bit of harm to learn how the other half lives."

"Right!" Peter exclaimed heartily. "I'll call Pat today."

In spite of himself, as he was leaving, Barry mentioned his Harlem theory.

Peter listened intently.

"Well," he said, "you are a Hawkshaw."

"You'd be surprised if I landed Mrs. Kelly, wouldn't you?"

"No," Peter replied, smiling again, "but I'd be terribly surprised if you didn't begin suspecting someone else ten minutes afterward."

CHAPTER VIII

The more Barry thought of it, the more certain he became that the Judge's story, and the revelations in Harlem, removed the only reason for questioning Harwood's hypothesis. When the divorce action was filed, Kelly had promised not to see Betty Barclay again. That promise had induced the withdrawal of the petition. And then Betty Barclay had phoned, while Kelly was out, and just as Mrs. Kelly was going. In Harwood's own words, Mrs. Kelly "went wild." Failing to get legal counsel, she taxied to Harlem, and there she got "madder and madder." Just after midnight, she drove home, and found Kelly alone—drunk, and with the accumulated wrath engendered by two trying interviews. There were words, and a handy decanter.

The design began being almost too nearly perfect.

He found Peggy doing some mending in her dingy room. She had lost flesh, and seemed to be always staring at nothing. "It's Jacky," she confided in Barry. "I'm worried about him."

The youngster looked pale and ill.

"Look here, Peg; will you have lunch with me tomorrow at the Astor? I want you to meet somebody."

"Miss Hambidge?"

"Yes."

"She'd turn up her nose at me like an elephant reaching for peanuts."

"I don't think so. Anyway, I want you to know each other."

The appointment was made, at last—one o'clock—and Barry called Pat. "Well, the trail's hot, all right."

"Tell me about it."

"I don't dare over the wire. You know; operators. Come in and lunch with me?"

"When?"

"Tomorrow at one."

Pat was eagerly anxious to hear his news, and there was no other way. But, if Pat's nose remained static when she learned she was to encounter Peggy, her mouth straightened.

"Why? What have I in common with this girl?"

"Well," Barry answered, flatly, "you're keeping her husband in prison."

Pat flushed.

"You owe her something for that, don't you think? What're you being so high hat about? This girl's Mrs. John Clarke Ridder, Jr., you know."

"I'm not being high hat. Only, naturally, just now, I don't feel much like meeting strangers. Especially strangers with whom I have no community of interest."

Lunching together, however, it soon became evident that there was a "community of interest." Pat warmed to this painted chorus girl, fearful for her husband exactly as Pat was fearful for her father. Though Peg didn't know it, their fate hung on the same thread. Both heard Barry's account of his discoveries with regard to Mrs. Kelly.

"It seems pretty conclusive," Pat said.

"I never thought of that dame—I mean, woman," Peg added. "Would that get Jack off quick?"

Barry explained his understanding that, if there were definite proof of another person's having committed a crime, anyone in custody was released immediately. "The district attorney moves for a dismissal of the indictment, I believe," he told them.

"Gee!" Peggy said, with the tears in her eyes.

Pat was no fool, and she found herself respecting and liking this "night club hooper." She was Mrs. Ridder, after all. "Whoever the girl might have been, it was the tears beginning to dissolve the beads that stirred Pat. She had never seen anyone cry that way before—cry with her lips twisted into a smile."

"You've certainly stuck to your husband," Pat observed.

"Why not? When you really love anybody, you don't care what they do, or have done, or what they are. It's what they are to you that counts. You're not thinking what you're going to get, but what you're going to give. That is, the right kind of girl is."

"Gosh, she's trying to help me with Pat," Barry thought.

The upshot was that Pat took Peg and the youngster to Southampton the next morning. "Peter suggested it," she told Barry. "And, of course, you're right—I do owe them something."

It wasn't the debt that did it, Barry realized. It was Jacky. Peg wanted Patricia to see him, and the house was so near. There really wasn't any good excuse for not going. So, for the first time in her life, Pat sniffed fried fish in an entrance hall, and tripped on worn stair carpets, and found herself stifling in a back room without air or sunshine. She'd known people lived like that, of course, but, somehow, she'd never thought much about it. She found herself thinking now. "If I had to spend one night in this place—That's what's the matter with the boy."

It was arranged that Evans was to drive them out, and come back for Barry on Thursday.

When Barry left Pat at her hotel, she said, "You seem to be everybody's friend, Mr. Gilbert. It's a little hard to understand, considering."

"Considering that I'm an adventurer and an impostor?"

"Yes."

"Yes," Barry repeated, "but that's how you learn what friendship means."

That night, Barry went to the Coconut Bar.

"I mustn't overlook anything," he reflected.

There wasn't much to overlook in the Coconut Bar. Not in the way of clothing, at all events. The lobby was full of men, more or less surreptitiously glancing at framed photographs of girls whose costumes might have been packed in a vanity case. Inside was a square dancing floor with tables about it, like the seats about a prize ring. Above, there was a balcony with more tables, except at one spot, occupied by offices.

There were three shows a night, the amateur Hawkshaw discovered from his menu—at seven, eleven, and one.

It wasn't hard to get acquainted with any of the girls. One had only to look prosperous, and incline his head an inch or two in the direction of a vacant chair. "We're not supposed to do this," Violet Fane informed Barry, "but Luis's got a swell stand-in."

Barry had his expense account and his ingratiating grin, and used both to the limit. It wasn't long before the blonde was telling the story of her life. "I bin with Luis ever since I was a kid," she bragged. "He's a swell guy. You oughta know him. I'll give you a tumble after the next show."

Luis was most affable. A sentimentalist, but a business man, with a keen eye to spenders, and a withering contempt for tight-wads.

A flashy young fellow, Morano was, who wore sporty clothes, and much jewelry. Slim and dapper, his shining ebony hair was slicked back from his forehead. He had a long, thin nose, and straight, thin lips, and a slight but rather curious impediment in his speech. His voice could be very soft at times.

"Tender hearted, Luis is," Miss Fane declared later. "I've seen him cry when somebody sang about mother, or the kid, or sumpin'. That loved-her-and-lost-her stuff specially. He was married once."

"Didn't it take?"

"Sure, it took. That's why he cries. The Jane died, or sumpin'. Know what Luis did—when he got the coin, I mean? Bought the house they used to live in, and went on livin' there—alone, with a couple of servants."

"Gee!"

"Ain't that romantic? I'll say so! He's still got the servants, too. They all moved to a farm, somewhere in Jersey, a couple'a years ago. Would you believe it—he drives out every morning, after the last show. Nuts about horses, Luis is. Not to bet on. Just likes 'em."

"Learned about horses in Fanager county," Luis said, returning at that instant. "I lived there 'til I was nineteen, and that's all they know. Go on, VI; you'll be late."

"I never was late for a show yet," she retorted. "Nor out of one. Not in all the years I've worked for you."

"That's straight," Morano admitted, as she was leaving. "Never been out of a show in her life. She's a swell girl, VI."

There wasn't much to be got at the Coconut Bar; not that Violet and Morano weren't willing to talk. Morano's romance had left him a gentle melancholy—or, perhaps, he was only worried about business. But, if he had anything to conceal, it certainly seemed to have no relation to Kelly. On that subject, everything was open and above board.

"Just a gorilla," Morano said of the Big Boss, the next night, when Barry returned to the Coconut Bar.

"Oh, Mike was a right," Miss Fane protested.

"Sure!" her employer agreed. "He wouldn't do nothing worse than steal pennies from a dead body. Pal of VI's though," Luis added, winking at Barry.

"Yeh," Violet declared, dryly; "until that Barclay dame came along."

"He was in here that evening, wasn't he?" Barry asked.

"Yeh. Just a few hours before they croaked him."

"He had a girl pinched, or something?"

"Yeh," Morano repeated. "Nice kid, too. Took her around to the station in them things."

"I don't blame the Jane's husband for getting sore," Morano continued, "though bumping a guy off for that's going a little too far."

"Kelly was soused," Miss Fane said.

"Yeh. Plenty. And he thought the kid was picking his pocket. Nothin' to it."

ESCAPE IN SIBERIA

SIR HORACE PLUNKETT of England, or "Hod" Plunkett as the cowboys in western Nebraska and eastern Wyoming in the early days knew him, had some thrilling adventures on the American frontier, but his narrowest escape from death was in Siberia.

One day his horse went lame near a Russian village. Being in a hurry to reach St. Petersburg, he left his horse there and hired another one, hitched to a sleigh. In the midst of a dark, dismal forest, he heard a howl and saw a huge timber wolf pursuing him.

Sir Horace lashed his horse into a mad gallop, but the wolf gained on him at every jump. Just as the fierce beast sprang at him, Sir Horace dropped down into the bottom of the sleigh. The wolf sprang clear over him and lighted on the horse's hindquarters.

The terrified horse kept on running even after it was half eaten up. Then Sir Horace sprang up. His whip gave the wolf a terrific cut. With a howl the beast sprang forward just as the horse died and fell out of the harness which dropped on the wolf.

Sir Horace then grabbed up the reins. By lashing at the wolf constantly with his whip he kept it going forward at a terrific pace. A few moments later it raced into a town and came to a plunging halt in front of an inn. Out dashed a group of Russians who killed the wolf and, as Sir Horace stepped out of the sleigh, pressed forward to congratulate him upon his escape.

THE HUMILIATED TEETH

IN SALT LAKE CITY, baseball bugs still refer to Joe Jenkins, their old catcher, as the man who always wore a mask, not because Joe used a mask when catching, but the contraption he wore other times was a little net slung under his chin. It acted as catcher, too—whenever Joe's lower plate of 16 shiny, false teeth, worked loose.

Without dreaming of being insulting, Joe laid the plate aside in a restaurant one night and went right on eating. It happened the teeth were on edge; they were so humiliated by his act they rolled to the floor and hid there.

Next day, filled with remorse, the teeth began to hunt Joe. It was a long search, filled with heart breaks. Once the teeth almost caught up with Joe while he was gulping milk toast, missing by snapping distance only.

One afternoon, Salt Lake opposed the Portland Beavers. The Utah team was three runs behind, ninth inning, two out and the bases filled. Joe'd been in an awful slump and was benched.

At this moment, fortunately for Salt Lake, something resembling a wide smile crawled up the players' bench and bit Jenkins where he carried his eating tobacco. Whooping wildly, Joe leaped seven feet in the air. With his right hand he snapped the prodigious lower plate into his mouth; with the left he reached down for his bat. Joe slammed a home run over the left field fence, winning the game for Salt Lake by a score of 6 to 5.

A RESOURCEFUL COCK

"THE picture in my living room," said Humming Bird Stevenson of Columbia, Tenn., "is not a reproduction of a freak of nature but a lifelike portrait of Blinky, my one-eyed rooster."

"That smear on the right side of his head is a glass eye. I know it's bloodshot. I painted it that way to make the other cocks overconfident. His neck is a trifle corkscrewish—that's because Blinky, in feinting to overcome the handicap of a single eye, almost wrung his own neck."

"The greatest pitting he won was when a couple of city fellows came to Columbia with their fighting birds and cleaned up."

"In the grand finale, Blinky was matched against the city champion, an Allen round-head, and I bet all I could beg, borrow or steal at odds of 5 to 1. The odds were easy to get, for word was passed to the city slickers that poor Blinky was a one-eyed cock."

"Blinky never showed better pitman-ship. Wherever the round-head struck my pride sideslipped and put his glass eye in front of the gaffs. After that the round-head's needles were too dull to mend a pair of open-work stockings and the match was in the bag."

Home of Seabirds

Venice has been called the "Queen of the Adriatic" and the "Serene Seaport," but its oldest name was the "Sea-Birds' Home." Long before the Huns swept down on Italy there was a small population, the aboriginal Venetians, occupying the estuary, of whom Cassiodorus, secretary of Theodoric the Great, has left us a picture. The Huns drove refugees from Padua, Aquileia and other mainland cities to the lagoons to found a republic among the sea birds.

A noted minister once said: "Defend the Bible? I would just as soon attempt to defend a lion. I say let it alone; it will defend itself."

The Bible has certainly proven its worth and has held to first rank in the literature of the world. It does not need any arguments to vindicate its position as a most potent influence for the good of the human heart. Personal experience and facts that testify to the Bible's power are proof enough. This Word is living and active, it is Spirit and is life, it is sharp and it is soothing, healing and comforting. It satisfies every need of the soul,—when used. What it has done for others it can do for you—if you let it have its way with you. "Lord, let Thy Word in us abide. That we may seek no other guide."

An special feature scheduled for the Colonial Theatre is the official and authentic pictures of the Schmeling-Louis fight, Wednesday and Thursday nights, July 29-30. The fight fans will see round by round, blow by blow, including the fatal fourth and the knockout twelfth.

The ladies of St. John's Church are sponsoring a benefit keeno party at the school, beginning at 2:30 P. M. Admission will be 25c, entitling the visitor to twenty-five games of keeno. Among the handsome awards are twenty beautiful hand-made pillow cases. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Gaines & Kollman Chevrolet Co. is presenting a free movie on the plaza in front of their place of business, Saturday night, July 25, beginning at 8:15 P. M. Seats will be provided to accommodate the largest crowd and there will be an hour of thrilling entertainment free of charge. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Judge and Mrs. H. E. Haass and granddaughter, Miss Ada Bell Carter, motored in their new Ford V-8 to Fort Worth Saturday where Judge Haass attended a convention of Texas abstractors for several days. They were joined by Mrs. Fletcher Davis and together the party visited the Frontier celebration in Fort Worth and the Centennial Exposition in Dallas.

HOME OWNERS.

By Austin Callan.

It has long been conceded that the home owner is the best and happiest citizen.

The home is the Nation's citadel of strength.

Those who have made it easier to own and to keep a home, have rendered a distinct service to humanity. They have planted flowers along barren pathways.

The Nation's strength lies in the small homes because most homes are small. What affects modest domiciles affects millions. The Texas Legislature not only showed its interest in good citizenship but its consideration for the hard pressed when it adopted Senator Carl C. Hardin's home exemption measure relieving from state taxes all homes up to the assessed value of $3000.

HON. CARL HARDIN.

If Carl Hardin had rendered no other service than that he would be entitled to the gratitude of thousands of Texans.

Whoever makes it easier to maintain a place of habitation for a family confers a blessing, and adds a bloom and breath of fragrance to life. We want to see more home owners not only in the cities and villages of our state but out beyond the pavement in the rural communities. No home owner will become a communist. The blessings of a home will nurture in his heart love for his country and his country's flag. He will bring his children up to respect the worthy things of life; he will train them for good citizenship, and they will be an ornament to society.

Among those from here who attended the Baptist Encampment at Alto Frio Sunday were Mr. Henry Windrow, Mrs. O. G. Crow and two daughters, Joe Embrey, Mrs. Andrew Schuehle, Mary Elizabeth Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Will Scott and family, Mr. and Mrs. Will Crow, Nonnie Jennings, and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Baker.

Following is the personnel of the organization: Herbert Wolff, organizer and director, plays accordion; Ernie Marcey, 1st violin; James Carmichael, banjo, Paul Carmichael, guitar, and Edwin Wolff, drums.

Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Davis and Misses Octavia and Anne Davis went to San Antonio Friday night to attend the graduation of their daughter and sister, Miss Lucy Davis, from Our Lady of the Lake College. Miss Lucy graduated with distinction and received a Bachelor of Science degree in Home Economics. During her four years she was active in the affairs of the school, having been admitted to Mu Chapter of Alpha Chi, honorary scholarship society of the South, and having been vice-president of the Sophomore and Junior classes, and president of the Practical and Fine Arts Club during her Senior year. She also was editor-in-chief of The Angels, Sodality newspaper, and an associate editor of The Palms, college magazine.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Graff were pleasant callers at this office Saturday. Mr. Graff had with him an interesting specimen, an old sadiron, which he found embedded in the gravel in the bed of the Hondo Creek. The iron seemingly had been covered with gravel for many years as it was badly corroded and was encrusted and embedded with tiny pebbles and sand. If its history is as Mr. Graff believes, an interesting story is attached to the iron. On August 14, 1880, the high flood waters of the Hondo Creek washed away the home and the mill, which belonged to the late Mr. Joe Horn, and were situated on the west bank of the Hondo near the intersection of the Hondo and the Verde Creeks. In 1894, following another flood, the creek channel was changed and uncovered an old stove, identified by the Horn family as theirs, washed away fourteen years earlier. The stove was found a mile below the site of the Horn home, and the old iron brought in by Mr. Graff was found within a few yards of where the stove was discovered. It is believed the last high waters of the Hondo uncovered the iron and that in all probability the iron was a part of the household goods lost by the Horn family almost fifty-six years ago.

THE NEW IDEA OF CANCER.
Many Cases Can be Cured if Reported Promptly.
Bulletin No. 9.
American Society for the Control of Cancer, 1250 Sixth Avenue,
New York, N. Y.

THE PREVENTION OF CANCER.
It is possible that as many cases of cancer can be prevented as can be cured.
Unlike most other diseases against which science is waging organized warfare, cancer occurs without reference to the healthfulness of the environment. The rich and the poor are affected alike. The ignorant and intelligent are equally victims.
Over and over again attempts have been made to connect the causation of cancer with some article of food, either eaten to excess, insufficiently eaten, or harmful because of some property which it was supposed to possess or be deficient in. Many years ago the cause of cancer was supposed to be tomatoes; later, pork; and still later, salt. When subjected to the cold analysis of science, every theory which has thus far been put forward to connect cancer with food has broken down.

How, then, can cancers be prevented? Cancers in some locations can be prevented very simply. It is said by reliable authorities that cancer of the mouth and tongue never occurs among persons who keep their teeth and mouths in good and clean condition. The jagged tooth, the ill-fitting dental plate, rubs until it makes a sore which may develop into cancer. Sores upon the lip may be produced by holding a hot pipe too much in one position. Cancers of the breast are believed to be due in part to stagnation of the natural secretions. Cancer of the stomach may be induced by too hot food, too much strong alcohol or any other abuse of that organ. Cancer of the uterus may develop on the site of un-repaired lacerations received at childbirth. Skin cancers may be caused by continual irritation of moles. The way to prevent cancers in any of these ways is to avoid or correct the conditions which may lead to them.

The Time to Cure Cancer is When
It is Beginning.
If you think you have any of the symptoms described in these articles you should be examined by your doctor or at a hospital at once.

GICAL TREATMENT OF CAN-

with statistics in regard to Pres., Sec. No. enrolled in all day, part time and day unit classes; No. of Green Hands; No. of Future Farmers; No. of Lone Star Farmers, No.
of American Farmers and Honorary
Membership in each chapter.
Bonnard Rothe will accompany Hugh Meyer to the State Convention and will act with Hugh to make up the two delegates from the Hondo
Chapter of Future Farmers of America. Each chapter in the state is allowing two delegates to the convention.
I take this opportunity of congratulating Hugh Meyer and Bonnard Rothe for their year's work and accomplishments, and may their future be full of such responsibilities as has been placed on them by their school and the Winter Garden District.

Fewer Aches and Pains
More Health and Pleasure PAIN drags you down—physically, mentally, morally.
Why continue to endure it? Try Dr. Miles
Anti-Pain Pills for Headache, Neuralgia,
Muscular, Rheumatic, Sciatic, and Periodic Pains. They seldom fail.
Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills are pleasant to take and prompt to act. They do not upset the stomach, cause constipation or leave you with a dull, depressed feeling.
Ask your druggist or any of the hundreds of thousands enthusiastic users. Probably you too can find relief.
I think all Dr. Miles medicines are wonderful, but Anti-Pain Pills are my favorite.
Mrs. Doc Blankenship, Stamford, Texas
I have used your Anti-Pain Pills only a short time, but they have given me prompt relief. They did for me in a week more than any other medicine I had taken for a year. Phil Goller,
Milwaukee, Wisconsin
I am never without Anti-Pain Pills. I think they are much better than anything else I have ever used. Sometimes when I am tired and nervous, and feel like I would go under, I take two Anti-Pain Pills and in a short time I feel like a different person.
Mrs. S. Tidabach,
Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania
Your Anti-Pain Pills have been used in my home with wonderful results. I recommend them.
Maggie Belle Dudley, Vanceboro, N. C.
Your Anti-Pain Pills helped me a great deal. I have used them for years. I carry them everywhere in my purse and always keep them in the house. They have saved me a great many sick headaches.

RELIEF UNDER REVISED SET-UP

Austin, Texas, July 20—Texas Relief Commission offices will be open in the various counties by August 1 to receive applications of persons desiring to be considered for Works Progress Administration jobs, Adam R. Johnson, director of the Texas Relief Commission, has announced.

Upon the request of Works Progress Administration officials, the Texas Relief Commission has agreed to undertake the task of determining the need of persons who apply for WPA employment, Johnson said. Expense of this service will be paid from federal funds.

In addition to performing this service for WPA, the Texas Relief Commission will continue to sponsor surplus commodity distribution contingent upon the continued cooperation of counties in employing approved case workers, it was explained. Applications for WPA employment or for surplus commodities will be filed and cleared through the same office.

Eligibility for WPA employment or for receipt of surplus commodities is determined upon a basis of need, Johnson explained. Although it is no longer required that a job applicant be a former relief client, present need must be definitely established.

Responsibility and authority of the Texas Relief Commission extends only to the acceptance of clients' applications, and does not encompass assignment of individuals to jobs. Texas Relief Commission employees examine eligibility status of applicants and refer those persons found eligible to WPA.

Johnson pointed out that certification to WPA does not necessarily mean a job is awaiting the person certified as the quota assigned to Texas will permit the absorption of only a portion of those referred to WPA offices. Unless this surplus is absorbed by private industry in the various localities of the state, these persons must remain jobless, he declared.

"For the Texas Relief Commission to perform the service of intake and referral for WPA, and to continue sponsoring the distribution of surplus commodities, we must continue to receive the cooperation of the various counties and cities," Johnson stated. "We anticipate this cooperation, however, as our work consists of making surplus commodities available to the needy and of making WPA jobs a possibility for many of the unemployed workers."

CUSTOMS BUSINESS SHOWS INCREASE.

The report of business transacted in the San Antonio Customs District shows a very satisfactory year ending June 30, 1936, reports Harry P. Hornby, Collector of Customs, District No. 23.

The total collections in the district were $1,756,975.79. The port of Eagle Pass led the district with $936,173.36. Collections at other ports were as follows: Laredo, $395,449.78; Brownsville, $33,712.79; Del Rio, $200,849.63; Hidalgo, $21,636.29; Rio Grande City, $87.12; Roma, $259.95; Corpus Christi, $22,435.34; Fort Worth, $43,160.20; San Antonio, $103,050.97.

The total number of vehicles crossing at the various ports was 336,460, of which 761,147 were automobiles. Crossing the bridges at Laredo 376,149 vehicles were registered. At Brownsville 204,639. Eagle Pass was third with 116,737.

There were 3,727,831 passengers who crossed the various bridges and ferries into the United States, 1,902,534 passengers entered by automobile and 1,510,560 pedestrians. Laredo led with 1,801,551 passengers; Eagle Pass 649,253; Hidalgo 266,543; Brownsville 731,321.

The total number of entries numbered 31,821.

Collections were made up as follows:

Customs	$1,710,966.71
Other Treasury	21,962.33
Commerce	16,630.75
Labor	7,516.00

The mail transactions at Laredo showed a remarkable increase for the past year. Duty assessed on mail entries increased 54% during the fiscal year 1936 over the fiscal year 1935. The number of mail entries issued showed an increase of 67%. Parcels examined increased 66%.

Increased business, especially in the tourist traffic at the ports of Laredo and Brownsville, has necessitated the employment of extra inspectors at the bridges. Four temporary inspectors at Laredo have been approved by the Civil Service, and with the increased traffic over the new highway it is expected that other additional help will be required. Only those having Civil Service standing will be eligible.

TWO WESTMOORLAND STUDENTS ELECTED AT METHUEN MEET.

Members of the West Texas Methodist Young People's Conference, which adjourned in Kerrville last week, elected two Westmoorland students and one ex-student of the college to the five major offices of the organization. Rev. Wood H. Patrick, executive secretary of the board of Christian education, announced Saturday that Herman Vetter, junior from Kerrville, was elected treasurer of the conference, while Joe Kilgore, sophomore from Mission, was chosen director of public relations. Miss Irene Barkuloe, former student from Hondo, is the new secretary of the conference.

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE TEACHER APPOINTED ON STATE-WIDE COMMITTEE

Clifford Sadler, Vocational Agriculture teacher in Hondo High School, has been appointed to serve on a state-wide committee with the following:

A. L. Crossland and President of Mt. Pleasant Chapter.
C. P. Vickery and J. C. Tischhausen, Nacogdoches, Texas.
R. R. Petty and Carl Moore, Nolan, Texas.
J. B. Cooper and Melvin Milliard, Abilene, Texas.
F. D. Shackelford and President of Madisonville Chapter.

J. D. Martin and President of Marquez Chapter.

E. D. Parnell and boy selected by him, Cameron, Texas.

F. C. Shillingbury and boy selected by him, Ralls, Texas.

C. D. Sadler and boy selected by him, Hondo, Texas.

The head of this committee is F. D. Shackelford of the Madisonville Chapter.

The purpose of this committee is to construct a state area and district program regarding improvement of farming conditions in the state of Texas.

Mr. Sadler left Wednesday to attend the state convention to be held at John Tarleton Agricultural College, Stephenville, Texas, July 23, 24, 25.

Mr. Sadler was elected secretary of the Winter Garden district of Vocational Agriculture Teachers at Dilley last Tuesday.

Mr. Sadler, who is president of the Mu Chapter of the Alpha Tau Alpha, a national Agricultural Educational Fraternity for men of high scholastic standing or outstanding work in the field, will hold a state meeting while in Stephenville, Texas.

FOR RAILROAD COMMISSIONER.

H. O. JOHNSON, Harris County, world war veteran and mechanical engineer, and running on his bonus money, is a candidate for railroad commissioner. He polled over 140,000 votes two years ago, lost by a few thousand votes.

If elected he promises to enforce the law against discrimination as to pipe line service to producers. He also declares there is gas wastage in Texas and promises to check it. If there is to be a conservation and proration act, he says, proration should be enforced in all fields. He stands for appraisal of gas properties to lower rates. Reorganization of the truck and bus division is another plank in his platform. Forms of transportation must be co-ordinated, he believes. A new department should be created to have complete supervision over wild cat wells so as to protect the farmers and landowners from fraud.

DRAMATIC FILM FARE.

Popular Janet Gaynor and M-G-M's sensational "find", Robert Taylor, make up what is considered the film's most perfect couple. The two are co-starred in Ben Ames Williams' story of a chaotic runaway marriage, "Small Town Girl", which is now playing at the Colonial Theatre.

Janet Gaynor and Robert Taylor in "Small Town Girl"

Tensely dramatic is the First National picture, "I Found Stella Parish", which comes to the Colonial Monday and Tuesday. The cast includes Kay Francis, Ian Hunter, Paul Lucas, Sybil Jason, Jessie Ralph, Barton MacLane, Eddie Acuff and Joseph Sawyer. The story deals with the intense desire of a mother to shield her daughter from the world because the child was born in prison.

38th JUDICIAL DISTRICT,
Medina County, Texas,

LYNN PARSONS
NO. 3435 VS.
GEORGIA E. PARSONS.

The State of Texas to the Sheriff or any Constable of Medina County—

GREETING:

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED, that by making publication of this Citation in some newspaper published in the County of Medina, once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, you summon Georgia E. Parsons, whose residence is unknown, to be and appear at the next regular term of the District Court of the 38th Judicial District of Texas, held in and for Medina County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in the town of Hondo, on the first Monday in August A. D. 1936, the same being the 3rd day of August A. D. 1936, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 1st day of July A. D. 1936, in a suit, numbered on the Docket of said Court, No. 3435 wherein Lynn Parsons is plaintiff, and Georgia E. Parsons is defendant; the nature of plaintiff's demand being substantially, as follows, to-wit: Suit for divorce on the ground of cruel treatment. Plaintiff alleges that he is now and has been for more than twelve months next preceding the filing of this petition an actual bona fide inhabitant of the State of Texas, and has resided in Medina County, Texas, more than six months next preceding the filing of this suit. That he was married to defendant on the 4th day of June, 1935, and that said marriage relation still exists. That he and defendant lived together until October 24, 1935, when he was compelled to separate from defendant and they have lived separate and apart from each other since said date. That immediately after their marriage defendant began a course of nagging and fault-finding without any cause or provocation on the part of plaintiff; that she repeatedly expressed a violent dislike for plaintiff and stated that she did not like Texas or anyone in Texas; that she refused without cause to cohabit with plaintiff; that by reason of the neglect by and conduct of defendant, plaintiff became ill and nervous and suffered great mental and physical pain, and that is insupportable for him to further live with defendant as his wife. That plaintiff does not know the present whereabouts of defendant. Plaintiff asks for a divorce and general and special relief.

HEREIN FAIL NOT, but have you before said Court on the said first day of next term thereof this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

GREETING:

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED, that by making publication of this Citation in some newspaper published in the County of Medina, once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, you summon John Shandy, who is alleged to be a non-resident of the State of Texas, to be and appear at the next regular term of the District Court of the 38th Judicial District of Texas, held in and for Medina County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in the town of Hondo, on the first Monday in August A. D. 1936, the same being the 3rd day of August A. D. 1936, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 1st day of July A. D. 1936, in a suit, numbered on the Docket of said Court, No. 3443, wherein Bexar-Medina-Atascosa Counties Water Improvement District No. 1 is plaintiff, and John Shandy is defendant; the nature of plaintiff's demand being substantially, as follows, to-wit:

Suit to collect delinquent bond tax due plaintiff by defendant aggregating the sum of $25.90; and for delinquent flat rate assessments for the maintenance and operation of said Water Improvement District aggregating the sum of $20.00, assessed against the following land: West 10 acres out of Lot 31, Block 2, of the San Antonio Trust Subdivision of lands, in Medina County, Texas, and for foreclosure of statutory liens on said land.

HEREIN FAIL NOT, but have you before said Court on the said first day of next term thereof this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at office in the town of Hondo, this 1st day of July A. D. 1936.

WITNESS, EMIL BRITSCH,

Clerk of District Court in and for Medina County, Texas.

Came to hand July 2nd A. D. 1936, at 9 o'clock A. M., and publication of the above Citation ordered made in the Hondo Anvil Herald.

CHAS. J. SCHUEHLE, Sheriff of Medina County, Texas.

(Issued same day.) 4tc.

For Bedspread and Scarf

Pattern 5560

"Company's coming!"—so out with the best bedspread, the dresser's matching scarf, both crocheted this easy way. You'll have reason indeed, to be proud of this lacy pair, to say nothing of a tea or dinner cloth, buffet or vanity set, all of which grow little by little as you crochet a simple medallion in humble string. Repeated and joined they make stunning "heirlooms."

In pattern 5560 you will find complete instructions for making the square shown; an illustration

Easy to Knit and Easy to Wear

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IT IS a foregone conclusion among women of varied activities that knitted clothes are the logical sort to wear at play or at work. This conviction in regard to the practical wearability of things knitted has come about from actual experience, and not from mere theory. And so the clicking of needles goes merrily on, more so than ever this season.

There is added inspiration, too, in the knowledge that knit or crochet yarns have been brought to such high state of perfection through modern processing that one is cheered with the assurance of dependable washability both as to shrinkage and to color fastness. Thus a new confidence has been created in the minds of the practical minded to the extent that knitted apparel has come to be recognized as staple wear rather than in the category of fleeting moods or fads.

As to the knitted items pictured they are new and they are practical, just such as you will appreciate wearing during week-end and vacation hours. The suntan halter as shown in the upper left of the group will give you all the exposure and freedom you need in beach and summer sports clothes. You can combine it with knitted bathing trunks or gaudy shorts or the popular culotte costume, or wear it with a linen skirt.

Out in the garden on a warm summer day with gay flowers about and skies that are blue it will be the frivolous dainty type of a blouse you will be wanting to fit in with the joyous landscape. Centered in the picture is a pretty blouse that is so simple and easy to crochet you can make it in a jiffy. It is cool because it is lacy. Choose yellow for the color of the mottered crochet cotton so that it will match the sunshine of a perfect summer day. This cunning model has practically no sleeves and is held together by a drawstring about the neckline in peasant fashion.

To the left below a sheer blouse is shown knitted of mottered crochet cotton. It is the sort that will add the feminine touch to your mannishly tailored suit or will carry through smartly with your summer linen skirts. The rows and rows of tiny ruffles at each side above the waistline is something new. You will like this styling immensely and so will your friends for it is out of the ordinary. The sleeves puffed just above the elbow are also a smart and very new feature. The neck is high, giving that close-to-the-throat line which fashion decrees this season. This high neck effect fills the opening of a classic laped suit jacket to perfect satisfaction.

Cool and lovely in its dainty coloring is the dress pictured to the right. The majority of dresses are knitted but this one is crocheted of soft washable knit-cro-sheen. The work goes rapidly as the stitch is a very open lacy one. A dress of this type should go into every trunk that is vacation bound, for it packs, washes and wears beautifully. The soft rolled collar and the cord and tassel fastenings are style details that give "class" that is recognized at a glance.

Of course you have taken note of the crownless garden hats which the girls in the sweaters are wearing. You can make one yourself and at trifling cost—just one of those big farmer straw hats with the crown cut out and the brim slashed up the back, rounding the corners. Finish all edges with a wide bias-cut binding of gay ging-ham and add ties of the same.

STAR-PRINT CREPE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Attractively studded with the symbol of the Lone Star state, this star print crepe cocktail dress is a special design in honor of the Centennial now being held there. The closely positioned buttons, the turne silhouette, the fanciful slit hemline, the widened puffed shoulders and the turnover collar effect are all contributing style details. Free-flowing, allowing ease of movement, this smart-looking dress is ideal for semi-formal wear.

WOMEN ADD COLOR; DON GAY GALLUSES

Not satisfied with copying men's suits, both as to material and styling, the women are now wearing suspenders. They have discovered that galluses not only furnish an added chance to introduce color and swank to the accessory theme, but these dashing skirt "holder-uppers" are exceedingly practical. In the narrow width sizes, chosen to form a daring contrast with the suit and blouse, suspenders present a smart appearance as they flash out from behind an unbuttoned jacket.

The whole idea, designers claim, is not just another fashion whim but springs directly out of style requirements set by the present trends in women's apparel; manish suits, hence suspenders! Clipping onto the skirt, suspenders hold this garment in line properly, preventing it from acquiring that ungainly "sat-in" look.

Swim Suits Are Dark and Snug-Fitting This Season

Wine-and-white is the prize color combination for swim suits this season.

Navy-and-white comes next, and then black, in lustrous suits of elastic satin.

Most of the newest suits have a dressmaker look. They are closely fitted, complete with uplift brassiere top, halter necks and sun-backs.

The great-open-spaces fad, which left the tummy bare to the sun's rays, is doing a graceful fadeout.

Negligee Ensemble

In making a silk nightgown, buy enough silk to include a little bed jacket to match it. This can be elbow or waist length and slip on over the nightgown for breakfasts in bed.

STAR DUST

Movie • Radio

By VIRGINIA VALE

PETE SMITH of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, who's made a name for himself with his short subjects, bought a film made by an amateur on sixteen millimeter film, remade it on thirty-five millimeter, and liked the result so well that he is putting on a nationwide contest for such subjects.

Theater executives and representatives of film-selling companies all over the country will send the best films submitted to them by amateur movie makers to Mr. Smith, and he'll pick the winners.

George Arliss is busy in England making "East Meets West," and his brother, Fred H. Andrews, is equally busy at the same studio. He is advising the producers on Oriental matters connected with the picture. It comes easily to him because he used to be curator of the Lahore museum. The veteran English character star continues to be a favorite with American movie goers. His pictures have invariably been interesting and the movie public is looking forward to his version of "East Meets West."

Imagine the feelings of one of our foremost movie stars when, as she motored through a small city recently, she saw one of her latest and best pictures advertised on the marquee of a theater—along with another feature, the Louis-Schmelting fight pictures, and the $550 that was the evening's Bank Night award.

"At least," said she when she'd recovered, "they weren't offering people dishes as an inducement to come in and see my film!"

Football fans are going to flock to movie theaters when RKO's "The Big Game" is released. Bobby Wilson, All-American quarterback from Southern Methodist university, has just been signed for it, and along with him will appear five more star football players, all members of Stanford university's championship eleven of last fall. They are Monk Moscrip, Bones Hamilton, Keith Topping and Frank Aulstiza.

Ruth Chatterton loves to fly her own plane, and does it very capably. But she's been asked not to go up in her plane while she's working in "Dodsworth"; valuable property can't be risked, you see. So she went for a whirlwind trip on a motorcycle the other night, and the company had the jitters all over again when word of it came out. First thing she knows, she'll be requested to do all her riding, if any, in a wheel chair.

If you are among the many who never fail to tune in on Colonel Stoopnagle and Bud, you may have wondered why they omitted Mr. Bopp, one of the most amusing characters on their broadcasts, the first time they substituted for the vacationing Fred Allen.

The Colonel had his tonsils out a few days before the broadcast. And he plays Mr. Bopp, which is very hard on the voice.

You may recall that Merle Oberon was slated for "The Garden of Allah" till Marlene Dietrich came along and got the role. Merle was upset, and decided to sue the producers.

The matter was settled out of court very nicely. Miss Oberon received $10,000 in addition to the $12,000 which she got before she lost the part. And she's to do another picture, "It Happened in Hollywood," which will bring in another $50,000. Not so bad.

Bette Davis has been having her troubles. Her salary and the kind of roles assigned her caused the difficulty, and, after she failed to show up for three weeks to work in "God's Country and the Woman" she was suspended by Warner Brothers.

ODDS AND ENDS . . . Mary Pickford plans to produce pictures seem to have suffered a setback, with the breaking up of the company . . . Lewis Stone's daughter is going to get married . . . And Lewis is going to take a yachting trip when he finishes his current picture . . . Ruth Chatterton and Ginger Rogers will appear in "Mother Cary's Chickens," with Anne Shirley and John Beale . . . Myrna Loy and William Powell will be seen together again in "The Last of Mr. Cheyney" . . . Claudette Colbert and her husband are taking a motor trip, driving an inexpensive car and wearing old clothes and having a grand time . . . Graham McNamee has a brand new contract with Universal news reel, though his old one hasn't expired yet.

butterfly which forms the pocket.

Notice how simple it is to put on, merely slipped over the head and tied at each side. Mothers find it a great help because it can be used as an apron over a frock, which must be kept clean, or worn instead of a frock. The panties to match are an asset—they have the comfortable French yoke top and stay snug but never bind. This attractive design made in cotton, percale, gingham, calico, or lawn would be effective with contrasting binding and colorful embroidery on the butterfly pocket.

All Around the House

Cut all dead blossoms from garden plants, cultivate soil and water plants frequently during the dry hot weather.

Lemon juice and salt will remove scorch from white clothes. Hang clothes in sun until stain disappears.

When lighting a birthday cake always light the candles in the middle first and those on outside last.

Chamois gloves will be soft and pliable if a few drops of olive oil are added to the water in which they are washed.

Celery, lettuce or almost any vegetable may be refreshed by adding a little lemon juice to some cold water and letting the vegetables stand in it for a few hours.

PURPOSE AND ORGANIZATION OF THE SCREW WORM CONTROL PROGRAM.

The screw worm fly, arch-enemy of stockmen, is not new to ranchmen in the Southwest. In general, the purpose of the screw worm control campaign is to convey to livestock raisers that information which has been made available by research workers—information that has been found to be practical and economical in treating screw worm cases and in controlling the screw worm fly.

This campaign is being conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, in cooperation with the extension services of the agricultural colleges and other state agencies in the states affected, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma, California and any other states where screw worm flies may migrate this year are included in the program.

The control of screw worms is essentially connected with better animal husbandry practices, according to R. A. Roberts, regional supervisor of screw worm control work in the southwestern United States, and all recommendations made concerning screw worm control will first be tested under range conditions. For this purpose demonstration units or ranches are being set up in different states; three of the units are in Texas. These ranches will represent different range conditions and will cover experiments with cattle, sheep, goats, horses and dogs. On these ranches various animal husbandry practices will be tried, worm killers and fly repellents will be tested and various methods of controlling the screw worm will be studied. Careful records will be made of these experiments to show if they are practical and economical under range conditions. As soon as this information is made available it will be passed on to the livestock raisers through the District Supervisors.

The District Screw Worm Supervisors are men of practical ranch experience who are employed by the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine. They are stationed in various counties, where they not only will disseminate information concerning screw worm control, but will collect all available data on the pest.

The campaign on screw worm control is under the direction of Dr. W. E. Love, 1010 Travis Building, San Antonio, Texas. Each state organization will be advised as to conditions in various parts of the state and as to the type of work needed by a State Screw Worm Control Committee.

Through the district, state and regional screw worm supervisors, the following program will be conducted:

- (1) A series of demonstrations and educational talks will be held.
- (2) Practical demonstrations on animal husbandry will be made under range conditions.
- (3) Estimates will be obtained of Fraternity's teachings and its continued growth among all nations; the latter, however, are a hindrance rather than an aid, a burden instead of an asset.

If the Masonic Fraternity is to have a smaller number of nominal Masons and a larger number of "True Masons," the members of each lodge should be exceedingly careful of the material which they select and of the moulding of that material after it has been selected.—H.

CARD PARTY.

Mesdames Theresa Ney, John B. Nester, R. R. Carle, M. M. Koch, and H. C. Rothe acted as hostesses at a benefit card party which was well attended Sunday afternoon at the Parish Hall. Prizes were won in the games as follows: bridge, Mrs. Charlie Finger; high five, Mrs. Ferd Koch and W. E. Albrecht; rook, Mrs. Henry Langfeld and O. W. Tondre; huncu, Jeanette Langfeld and Elmer Keller. Entrance prizes went to Mrs. Lena Langfeld, Mrs. William Finger, Mrs. F. J. Kimmerly, Mrs. Wm. Lieber, Mrs. Charles Langfeld, Mrs. Joe Rieber, Ed Koch, Billy Rothe, and Wilbert Holliday. Salad, saltines and iced tea were served.

the number of screw worm cases and the number of deaths resulting therefrom in the various counties.

(4) Demonstrations will be held of other phases of screw worm control which are of practical value and which may be practiced by the livestock raiser.

The adoption and regular use of methods for control of screw worms should inhibit development of large populations of screw worm flies in areas where they are active for long seasons, and should serve to delay occurrence in areas which normally receive them through gradual spread of the pest. The adoption of such preventive methods with prompt and proper treatment of cases should serve to retard spread of the pest. To restrict spread of screw worms through movements of injured animals, the cooperation of railroad agricultural agents will be sought in educational work with dealers, stockyards, livestock associations and operators of local livestock trading centers.

It is requested that stockmen having screw worm cases give the records of them to the screw worm supervisor in his district or to his county agent. The supervisor in this district is Mr. Jack Berry with headquarters at Pearsall, Texas.

The United States Department of Agriculture recommends benzol to be used in killing screw worms in wounds. Following this treatment, the wound should be coated with dehydrated pine tar oil, specific gravity 1.065. This hastens healing of the wound and aids in repelling further attacks of the fly.

THE THREE R'S

By Clayton Rand.

Whether reading, 'riting or 'rithmetic, every intelligent teacher knows that a child learns only as it gives attention.

Attention leads to concentration, and through concentration men and women, as well as children, improve themselves and achieve their purpose.

And as little as we may think, attention is the secret of successful advertising.

The ABC's of marketing a product is to so advertise it that it commands and keeps the attention of the buying public.
